Course Description:
This course introduces students to issues in social inequality, both in Canada and globally. Though we live in one of the most advanced and successful nations in the world, as a nation, we have not been able to extend these privileges and successes to all members of society. Many Canadians, particularly those at the bottom-end, have not been able to share in the rewards of being part of an advanced industrial society. This course examines the way in which social inequality has been historically produced, situated, and reinforced. We cover the main tenets of social inequality, social class, and social stratification, from the view of the classical theorists such as Karl Marx, Emile Durkheim and Max Weber. We examine the ways in which power and privilege position different groups in society and justify particular social arrangements. After exploring the ‘cannons’ of sociology we examine some of the persistent structural conditions of social inequality in society from more contemporary writers who look at the interconnections of class, race, ethnicity, sexuality, gender, age, and ability, which point to the processes producing inequality. In addition to the substantive lectures on inequality based on gender, race, class, we look at the ways in which these variables intersect in the lived experiences of individuals as they attempt to gain access to employment, education, health care and meaningful government support. In doing so, this course examines the intersections between individual agency and social structure, and the role of colonialism and post-coloniality.

Course Objectives:
Through this course, students will:

- Debate and apply sociological theories (both classical and contemporary) to analyze the social inequality;
- Explore the complexity of social inequality and its relationship to power and ideology;
- Interrogate the role of colonialism and racism in perpetuating inequality;
- Gain an understanding of the interconnections of race, class, gender, sexuality, disability, and age, and their role in social inequality;
• Become familiar with the literature concerning intersections of individual agency and social structure;
• Apply knowledge to a contemporary research paper on social inequality.

Learning Outcomes for Sociology 2R03
This course addresses three University Undergraduate Degree Level Expectations (see, University Undergraduate Degree Level Expectations). By the end of the course the student will be able to critically evaluate the current literature and sociological research in the sociology of inequality. Students will be able to critically evaluate the sociological theories that inform the sociology of inequality. Finally, students will be able to understand the historical and social construction of inequality.

These objectives reflect several of McMaster’s Undergraduate Degree Level Expectations
(see http://www.sociology.mcmaster.ca/undergraduate-program/course%20outlines)

Course Format: 50 minutes lecture, twice per week (Monday and Thursday)
Tutorials: Monday 9:30am -10:20am DSB AB 102

Procedures and Rules

ACADEMIC DISHONESTY:
Academic dishonesty consists of misrepresentation by deception or by other fraudulent means and can result in serious consequences, e.g. the grade of zero on an assignment, loss of credit with a notation on the transcript (notation reads: "Grade of F assigned for academic dishonesty"), and/or suspension or expulsion from the university.

It is your responsibility to understand what constitutes academic dishonesty. For information on the various kinds of academic dishonesty please refer to the Academic Integrity Policy, specifically Appendix 3, located at http://www.mcmaster.ca/policy/Students-AcademicStudies/AcademicIntegrity.pdf

The following illustrates only three forms of academic dishonesty:
1. Plagiarism, e.g. the submission of work that is not one's own or for which other credit has been obtained.
2. Improper collaboration in group work.
3. Copying or using unauthorized aids in tests and examinations.

DEPARTMENTAL/UNIVERSITY POLICIES:

Do NOT fax assignments. Please see your instructor for the most appropriate way to submit assignments.

The Sociology staff do NOT date-stamp assignments, nor do they monitor the submission or return of papers.

1a. Missed tests

Students who miss a term test will be assigned a mark of zero for that test unless their absence is supported by university approved documentation.

The McMaster Student Absence Form (http://www.mcmaster.ca/msaf/) is a self-reporting tool for Undergraduate Students to report absences that last up to 3 days and provides the ability to request accommodation for any missed academic work. Please note, this tool cannot be used during any final examination period.

You may submit a maximum of 1 Academic Work Missed request per term. It is YOUR responsibility to follow up with your instructor immediately regarding the nature of the accommodation.

If you are absent more than 3 days, exceed 1 request per term, or are absent for a reason other than medical, you MUST visit your Associate Dean’s Office (Faculty Office). You may be required to provide supporting documentation. This form should be filled out when you are about to return to class after your absence.

If your Request is APPROVED and a make-up test is required, you will write the make-up test on the designated date selected by the instructor. No student is automatically entitled to a second make up test. It is your responsibility to write the tests on the day in which they are scheduled.

Students should check the web, the white board and the Undergraduate Bulletin board outside the Sociology office (KTH-627) for notices pertaining to Sociology classes or departmental business (e.g. class scheduling information, location of mailboxes and offices, tutorial information, class cancellations, TA job postings, etc.).

Computer use in the classroom is intended to facilitate learning in that particular lecture or tutorial. At the discretion of the instructor, students using a computer for any other purpose may be required to turn the computer off for the remainder of the lecture or tutorial.

The instructor and university reserve the right to modify elements of the course during the term. The university may change the dates and deadlines for any or all courses in extreme circumstances. If either type of modification becomes necessary, reasonable notice and communication with the students will be given with explanation and the opportunity to comment on changes. It is the responsibility of the student to check his/her McMaster email and course websites weekly during the term and to note any changes.

It is the policy of the Faculty of Social Sciences that all e-mail communication sent from students to instructors (including TAs), and from students to staff, must originate from the student’s own McMaster University e-mail account. This policy protects confidentiality and confirms the identity of the student. It is the student’s responsibility to ensure that communication is sent to the university from a McMaster account. If an instructor becomes aware that a communication has come from an alternate address, the instructor may not reply at his or her discretion.

1b. Late assignments

• You are expected to complete assignments on time. Assignments are due at the beginning of the class lecture on the due date. Late assignments will be subject to a penalty of 5% per day. The Penalty period does include weekends and holidays. Please make every effort to hand assignments in on the due date.

Please come see the instructor if you are experiencing any difficulty with the assignment or the material presented in class. Only hard copies will be graded.

Please note that only McMaster emails will be considered official. Emails from other addresses may disappear into the black hole of spam filters.

• You are expected to keep a back-up, hard copy of your assignment in case it is lost.

• Accommodation provision:
  Medical Certificate must state that you were ill on the due date of the assignment for a one day extension. For a longer extension you must prove that you were sick during a longer period or prove an exceptional, unforeseen circumstance.

2. Grade appeals. The instructor and teaching assistant(s) take(s) the marking of assignments very seriously, and will work diligently to be fair, consistent, and accurate. Nonetheless, mistakes and oversights occasionally happen. If you believe that to be the case, you must adhere to the following rules:

- If it is a mathematical error simply alert the instructor of the error
- In the case of more substantive appeals, you must:
  1. Wait at least 24 hours after receiving your mark.
  2. Carefully re-read your assignment, all assignment guidelines and marking schemes and the grader’s comments.

If you wish to appeal your assignment grade:

A. You must submit to the instructor a written explanation of why you think your mark should be altered. Please note statements such as “I need a higher grade to apply to X” are not compelling. Also, please note that upon re-grade your mark may go down, stay the same, or go up.

B. Attach to your written explanation your original assignment, including all of the original comments. Submit a hardcopy of the package to the instructor during office hours or after the lecture.

C. You will receive a response via email or in person about your re-grade.

3. Electronic communication and electronic learning technology: Email communication is rapid, convenient, and efficient—and you are encouraged to use it to enhance your learning and experience in the course. With that said, it is essential that you follow a few rules:

- Assignments will not be accepted via email. You must submit hard copies of your assignments.
- All emails must include the course code (Soc. 2R03) in the subject line.
- All emails should be signed with the student’s full name and student number.
- Emails from students will generally be answered within 24 hours of receipt.
- Treat emails as you would any other professional communication.
- All general questions about the course that are NOT addressed on the syllabus and course website should be asked in class. If you cannot figure something out, chances are your inquiry will be useful for the entire class.

Emails that do not follow these guidelines will not receive a response.

4. Classroom etiquette

Students are expected to arrive at class on time. Laptops are allowed in class and should be used for taking notes. Other uses, emailing, web surfing will result in the student’s being required to turn off the laptop and it may affect your final grade.

Coming to lectures late, leaving early, not attending tutorials will impact your final grade.

Videotaping and recording lectures is strictly forbidden without written permission from the instructor.
