Course Description

This course introduces students to a social constructionist and socio-historical understanding of sexual difference otherwise known as “sexual deviancy”. The approach taken will differ significantly from biological and psychiatric approaches whereby sexual difference is understood as pathology and/or sexual perversion. By taking a constructionist and socio-historical approach, we will be able to chart how certain sexual desires and behaviours have been conceptualized and typified as anomalous, unnatural, deviant and in need of cure and/or regulation. Particular focus will be paid to sociological understandings of sodomy, masturbation, homosexuality, prostitution, BDSM and public sex.

Course Learning Objectives

This course addresses three University Undergraduate Degree Level Expectations (see, http://cll.mcmaster.ca/COU/pdf/Undergraduate%20Degree%20Level%20Expectations.pdf). First, sociological theories of deviant sexuality are multiple and diverse in their conceptualizations and truth claims. Acquiring knowledge of these diverse theories will expand students’ depth and breadth of knowledge of this field of inquiry. Second, there is no single theory (including sociological theories) that has been accepted as the final or best approach to explaining the complexities of how to study human sexuality and its manifestations. As such, this course requires that students consider and critically evaluate all competing theoretical approaches. In so doing, students will gain an awareness of the complexities and limits of knowledge regarding deviant sexuality. Finally, this course will encourage students to discuss theoretical and practical issues in class. Grading for this course will involve 3 projects (listed below) and class participation and regular attendance. In each case, the student’s communication skills will be challenged as well as enhanced.

Required Readings:

(i) Links to course articles will be posted on AVE. Students are expected to read a minimum of 2 of the weekly articles per week. These same articles will also be used as the presentation articles. Each student is to choose 1 article from this list to summarize and present in class.

Evaluation:

1. Weekly article summations and class regular attendance and participations – 25%.
   Note: regular attendance in this course is MANDATORY. Failure to regularly attend weekly lectures and submit weekly summaries will result in a loss of marks.

2. Paper Proposal – 10%. (Due Tuesday October 8th, at the beginning of class)
3. Article summary and presentation – 25%.
Students are responsible for choosing an article to summarize and present in class. In some cases, students will be able to collaborate with another student on an article, due to either the length or complexity of the article. Students are also responsible for submitting 2 weekly 1-page summaries of the 2 articles they have chosen to read for each week.

4. Major term paper – 40%. (Due Tuesday December 3rd, at the beginning of class)

Additional Information on Assignments
Presentation:
In an attempt to provide a broader understanding of sexual deviance, students are required to present in class a summary of an article from a list of weekly readings posted on AVE. You will have approximately 20mins to present your summary and may use any format you prefer – e.g. PowerPoint or lecture style. You will be required to submit to a copy of your presentation to me for grading. The intent of this exercise is to teach you how to properly summarize a scholarly article, as well as help you develop presentation skills that you will need for graduate school or may need for the workplace.

Review of Marks
I will be diligent in marking all assignments fairly and accurately. Nonetheless, on occasion, students disagree with the marks they receive. When this occurs, I will be happy to review the mark of any assignment or exam, if the procedure outlined below is followed. Please note that when a mark is reviewed, the new mark may be lower than the original.

To request a review of a mark, write a 1-page memo (on paper, not email) describing in detail the nature of the perceived marking error. Submit this memo, with the original marked assignment to me. You may submit requests for review no sooner than one week and no later than one month after assignments/exams are handed back to the class.

For late assignments without approved excuses, you must make arrangements directly with me to submit the assignment. Assignments will be marked down 5 percentage points for each day it is late, including weekend days and holidays. I will NOT accept late papers that are 3 or more days late. If your paper is 3+ days late, you will be given a mark of 0 for the assignment.

Academic Dishonesty
Academic dishonesty consists of misrepresentation by deception or by other fraudulent means and can result in serious consequences, e.g. the grade of zero on an assignment, loss of credit with a notation on the transcript (notation reads: "Grade of F assigned for academic dishonesty"), and/or suspension or expulsion from the university.

It is your responsibility to understand what constitutes academic dishonesty. For information on the various kinds of academic dishonesty please refer to the Academic Integrity Policy, specifically Appendix 3, located at www.mcmaster.ca/policy/Students-AcademicStudies/AcademicIntegrity.pdf.
The following illustrates only three forms of academic dishonesty:

1. Plagiarism, e.g. the submission of work that is not one's own or for which other credit has been obtained. In assignments, complete citations are required for all quotes and paraphrases. Consult the required writing style guide for information on how to properly cite the work of others.

2. Improper collaboration in group work. In this course, I encourage students to work together to understand concepts, discuss ideas, study for exams, etc. Improper collaboration would be defined as using the work of others to get out of doing your own work, claiming the work of others as your own, etc.

3. Copying or using unauthorized aids in tests and examinations.

DEPARTMENTAL/UNIVERSITY POLICIES:
Do NOT fax assignments. Please see your instructor for the most appropriate way to submit assignments. The Sociology staff do NOT date-stamp assignments, nor do they monitor the submission or return of papers. The McMaster Student Absence Form (http://www.mcmaster.ca/msaf/) is a self reporting tool for Undergraduate Students to report absences that last up to 3 days and provides the ability to request accommodation for any missed academic work. Please note, this tool cannot be used during any final examination period.

You may submit a maximum of 1 Academic Work Missed request per term. It is YOUR responsibility to follow up with your instructor immediately regarding the nature of the accommodation. If you are absent more than 3 days, exceed 1 request per term, or are absent for a reason other than medical, you MUST visit your Associate Dean’s Office (Faculty Office). You may be required to provide supporting documentation. This form should be filled out when you are about to return to class after your absence.

Students should check the web, the white board and the Undergraduate Bulletin board outside the Sociology office (KTH-627) for notices pertaining to Sociology classes or departmental business (e.g. class scheduling information, location of mailboxes and offices, tutorial information, class cancellations, TA job postings, etc.).

Computer use in the classroom is intended to facilitate learning in that particular lecture or tutorial. At the discretion of the instructor, students using a computer for any other purpose may be required to turn the computer off for the remainder of the lecture or tutorial.

The instructor and university reserve the right to modify elements of the course during the term. The university may change the dates and deadlines for any or all courses in extreme circumstances. If either type of modification becomes necessary, reasonable notice and communication with the students will be given with explanation and the opportunity to comment on changes. It is the responsibility of the student to check his/her McMaster email and course websites weekly during the term and to note any changes.

Religious, Indigenous and Spiritual Observances (RISO)
The University recognizes that, on occasion, the timing of a student’s religious, Indigenous, or spiritual observances and that of their academic obligations may conflict. In such cases, the University will provide reasonable academic accommodation for students that is consistent with the Ontario Human Rights Code. Please review the RISO information for students in the Faculty of Social Sciences about how to request accommodation.

Email

Please consider email equivalent to any other form of written communication. Students who write to their professors and teaching assistants are expected to follow rules of spelling, grammar and punctuation. In addition, please include a proper greeting, such as "Dear Dr. Shaw," and a closing that includes your full name, such as "Sincerely, Anita Koctail." Emails failing to meet these standards may be returned unanswered. Email containing questions that can be answered by referring to this syllabus or to Avenue to Learn may not be answered. I do check the separate Avenue to Learn email, but only intermittently. All email communication must come from your mcmaster.ca email account.
